Explore Lake Wilderness Arboretum and learn about the Arboretum's gardens and collections, as well as its fascinating history. During this one-hour tour, emphasis will be placed on Washington native plants that do well in our hot, dry summers and cool, wet winters.

Pacific Northwest gardeners, Chris and John Neorr will lead a leisurely one-hour walk through the Arboretum's beautiful natural areas including the Tribal Life Trail. As they lead this tour, they will discuss various plants, their characteristics and how you might include them in your landscaping.
